EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

The 16 Days Campaign is an international campaign that started in 1991 originating from the first Women's Global Leadership Institute. The dates between November 25 - International Day against Violence against Women (VAW) and December 10 - International Human Rights Day had been decided to symbolically link violence against women and human rights to emphasize that such violence is a violation of human rights of women.

The 16 Days Campaign by AAWAZ was to give a collective call for the acknowledgement and fight against GBV, CEFM and violence against women.

The objectives of the campaign were to raise awareness among communities about violence against women, ways to address it, call for legislative agenda at state and provincial level (in Punjab and Khyber Pakhtunkhwa). Activities were organized on union council, district, provincial and national level, to ensure participation of all 45 districts. Activities such as Apon ki Yaad, Siyasi Bethak etc. allowed the campaign to take forward its initiative by encouraging participation of locals via a connective strategy.

BACKGROUND

AAWAZ Initiative

The 16 Days Campaign is an international campaign that started in 1991 originating from the first Women's Global Leadership Institute. The dates between November 25 - International Day against Violence against Women (VAW) and December 10 - International Human Rights Day had been decided to symbolically link violence against women and human rights to emphasize that such violence is a violation of human rights of women. The 16 Days Campaign was used as an organizing strategy by individuals and organizations around the world to give a collective call for the elimination of all forms of violence against women.

This was conducted by raising collective voices, strengthening local, national, regional and international networks, demonstration of solidarity worldwide to end VAW and bringing innovative strategies and tools to combat this. 16 Days of Activism against Gender Based Violence (GBV) Campaign continued the theme of "From Peace in the Home to Peace in the World: Let's Challenge Militarism and End Violence against Women!" in 2014.

Gender Based Violence (GBV) is a universal reality existing in all societies regardless of socio-economic status, culture or any other form of diversity. Many women have been, and still are experiencing violence which has adversely affected their psychological and bodily health, as well as productivity and participation in their homes, communities and work place. One of the biggest forms of GBV is child, early and forced marriage (CEFM).

It is a widespread and harmful practice that threatens the lives and futures of girls around the world, with devastating consequences. CEFM denies girls their right to childhood, disrupts their access to education and jeopardizes their health and development. This is a global crisis and demands for a collective effort to build pressure on states undergoing the practice for taking responsibility of it and addressing it.

Women and marginalized groups like those of religious and ethnic minorities and persons with disability are the main focus of AAWAZ interventions. AAWAZ commemorated sixteen days of activism in collaboration with its partner communities to raise voice against discriminatory laws and to call upon state to take up responsibility for effective implementation of existing laws addressing women's rights. AAWAZ plans to organize activities starting from village level to national level. The activities were charted originating from UC level, passing on to District and on a National level.

Activities at Provincial Level

- Provincial Conference in Peshawar (25 November 2014)

AAWAZ Consortium partners (AF, SPO, SAPPK, and SUNGI) organised this provincial conference. It was held on the 25th of November, 2014. The 16 days of Activism campaign, raised awareness about GBV as a human rights issue at local, regional and national levels. Because this year's AAWAZ Program theme was set as; "Speak up for legislation on Stopping Domestic Violence and Child, Early and Forced Marriage," the topic included heated debate and agenda setting calling for action against this social menace.

Mr. Asad Qaiser; KP provincial assembly Speaker was the chief guest of the occasion, accompanied with Special Assistant to CM and Mr. Arif Yousaf (MPA from PK-4), along with other Members of the Provincial Assembly, lawyers and general participants. Mr. Qaisar emphasized on child marriages and domestic violence as a social menace, and pressed on the urgency of law to monitor it. He further discussed that consultations were going on the proposed law on containing domestic violence and pledged all the support to the efforts being made for betterment of the system.

Mr. Ejaz Khan; Deputy Chief of the Child Welfare and Protection Commission (CWPC), and Dr. Murad Afridi; Chief Commissioner CWPC were amongst the active participants of the conference. KP CWPC drafted the Child Marriage Restraint Bill, 2014. The draft of the proposed law is awaiting to be vetted by the law department, and will be shared with MPAs for further approval. The penalties in the law are very nominal and the mechanism provided for monitoring the rate and causes of child marriages are ineffective, thus the bill proposes that the offence of child marriage shouldn't be bail-able and non-compoundable; leaving no room for compromises and settlements often made beforehand among the relevant parties. The commission also proposed that police should be empowered in these cases to take cognizance of the offence, as currently the offence is non-cognizable. The highlight of the proposal is to increase minimum age of marriage for girls from 16 to 18 years, following the legislative clause of minimum age for boys at 18.

Ms. Saima Munir (Regional Manager) was also an asset to the conference who presented statistics of cases of violence against women. These cases were reported in three quarters of the year 2014 in KP. A total of 604 cases were reported in 270 days, indicating a high rate of cases of violence; up to 46 per cent cases pertained to killings, 33.5 per cent were cases of attempted-murder, 13 per cent suicides by victims of violence and 8 percent related to killings in the name of honor. She further elaborated on her clause by providing an estimated ratio of; 80 suicide cases to 47 honor killings.

Barrister Hashim Raza was another significant presence at the conference; he discussed the Domestic Violence (Prevention and Protection) Bill, 2014, and highlighted the salient features of it and urged a citizen and CS involvement to place setups to assist women and children surviving violence.

AF Resident Director Ms. Shabina Ayaz shared her views indicating that Sindh and Baluchistan have made laws on Domestic Violence but KP had yet to follow in the suit. She presented 100,000 signatures to Mr. Qaisar; the signatory campaign was carried out at provincial level and it had signatures taken from citizens across the province to demand legislation for ending domestic violence.

▪ Provincial Conference in Lahore (8th December 2014)

Women activists also shared their experiences regarding hardships faced due to their career choice and the general societal norm encircling women. Victims at Dar-ul-Aman and jails were an important presence at the conference; they shared their stories and discussed court cases proceedings to gather view and solutions from general discussions.

Apart from this, also discussed was the importance of inclusion of labor, farmer, children and minorities in all spheres of life with providing more opportunities. So the conference was not only directed to CEFM and women but also focusing on minorities. Mr. Khalil Tahir Sindhu, Minister for Minority Affairs was also an active participant in the conference giving his views on minority issues and also on the need for women protection.
